

Capital - Holland

It is the biggest city in Kingdom GerGlaude, and the capital is closely linked with the Cross-Beach Castle.

It began as a small group of migrants, 150 years ago. After it was claimed as the Kingdom's capital 50 years ago, its population started increasing, and it now holds one million people.

The most renowned landmarks in Holland are the sixteen obelisks that surround the city.

These sixteen structures suppress the activation of Dragon Artifacts.

However, the vast majority of its citizens will never come across a Dragon Artifact, so they are considered a tourist attraction.

Abide in the Wind

Please wait here.

The Dragon Artifact
brought over by a Dragon
Knight that killed my father.

Three years ago, I heard that the previous owner of this artifact,
the director of the art museum, had returned.

Please come to visit him again.

I just had to know if he was a Renegade. If he wasn't, then I had to know if he had some connection to them.

So I decided to come here with Kain.

Mamarin and Mamagi are waiting outside, just in case something happens.

The art director of this museum bought this Dragon Artifact at Taturung a decade ago.

Before this incident, he was just a normal human.

However, this spring, he mentioned that he's had a hard time sleeping and got agitated easily.

Spring... When that incident happened...

The Ravendusk's
host was the art
director's son

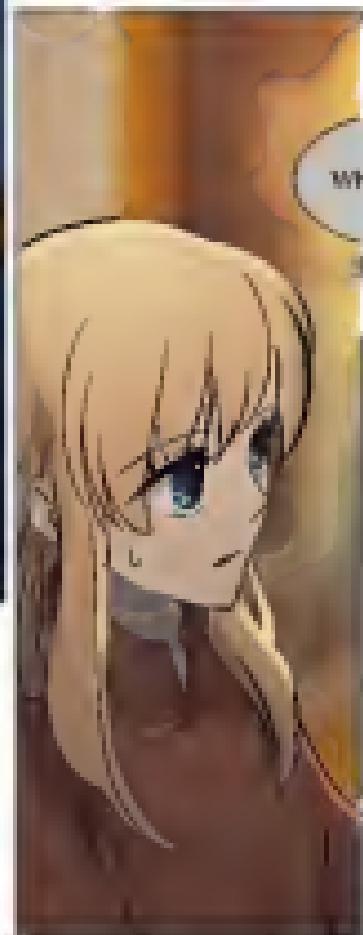

...and in NGA!

The person I will meet soon is probably the Paranormal main body,

or someone closely related to it... there's a high chance that he is.

Kolnak, look. It's the newspaper that Mr. Ralton is in.

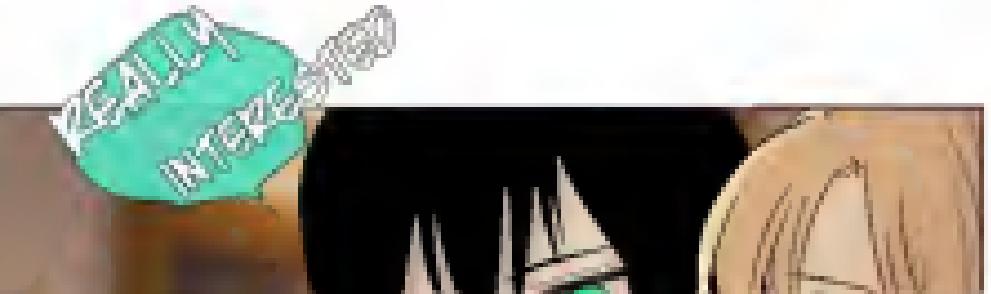

Due to the revolt against slavery in the southern regions, the kingdom has decided to deploy the military troops, along with the Dragon Knights.

LONE MANGA!

So two days later?

Ms. Berlin said that the slavery in the southern regions is much worse than up here...

I always get surprised when he did this...

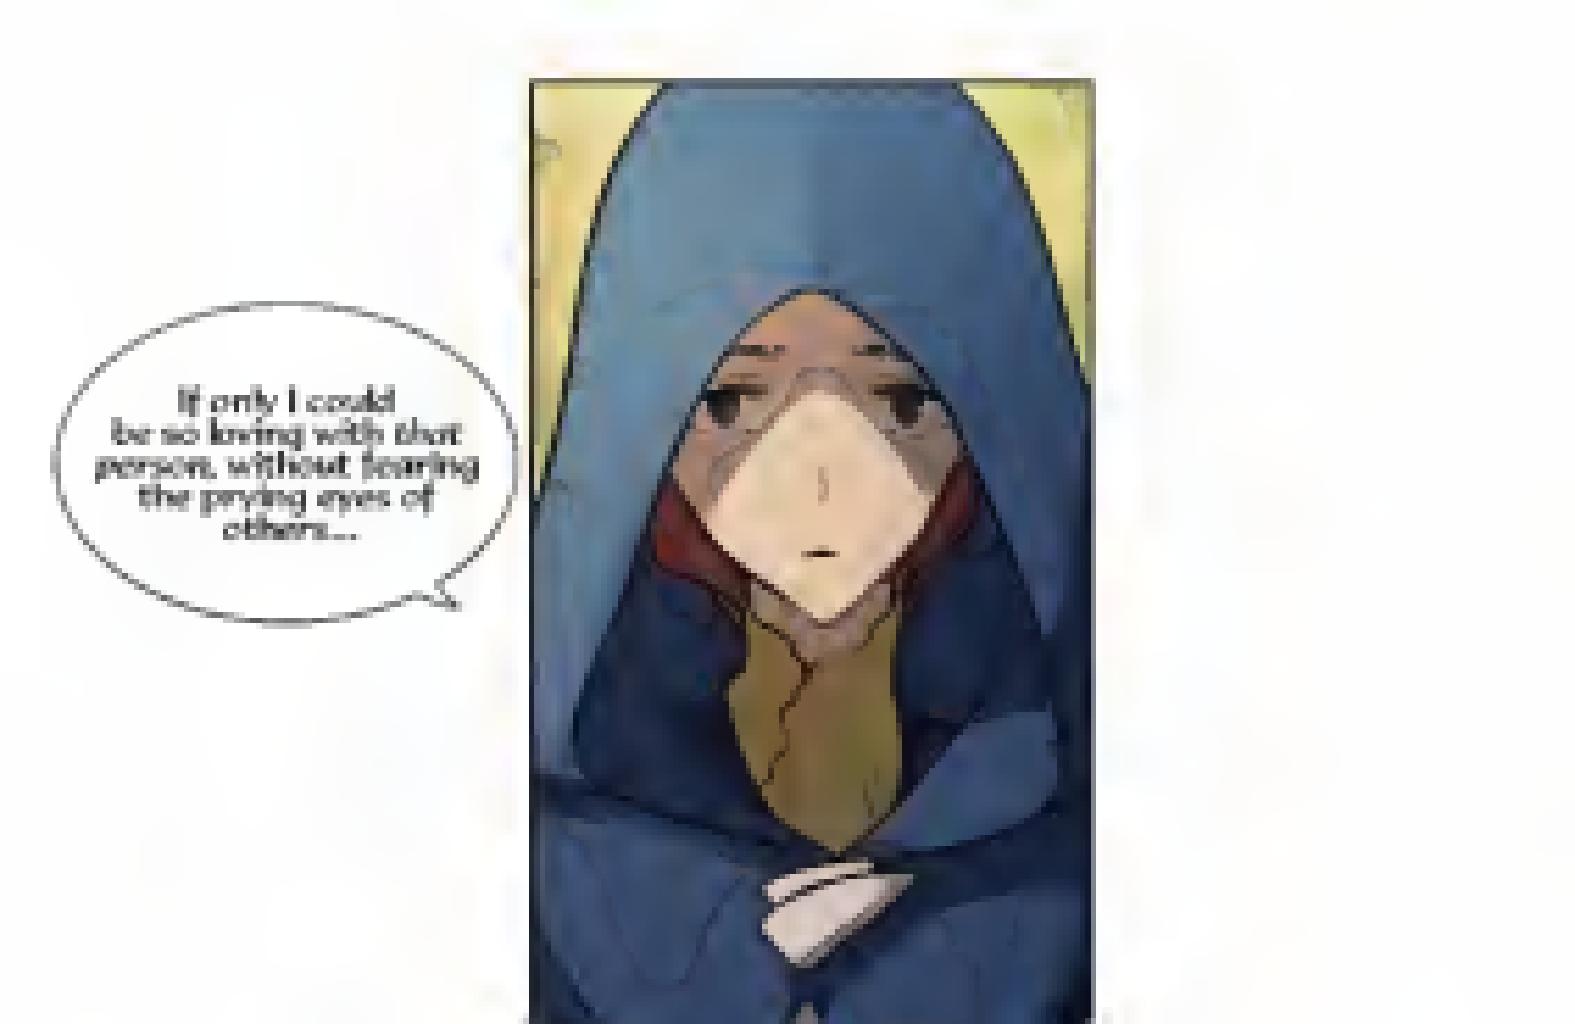

But now it looks comforting and natural.

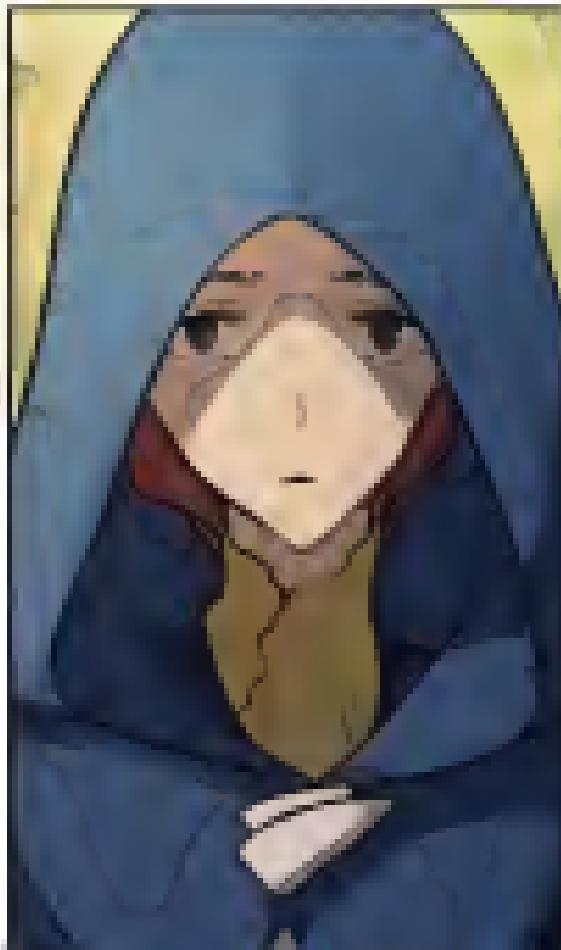

It makes me...
it makes me...
it makes me...

The two of you look good together.

A woman with long brown hair is wearing a blue hoodie. A speech bubble to her left contains text.

If only I could be so loving with that person, without fearing the prying eyes of others...

LONE MANGA!

My business with him
will be done soon.

Art Director's Office

LONIE MARSHAL

Here's the item
you've requested.

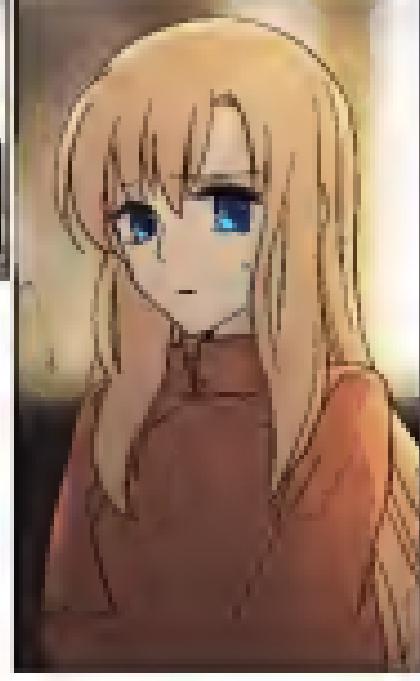

I see. It really exists.

It was hard to obtain any information on it, since the creator made it be a hurry at the time.

No matter how rare or obscure it is, we can obtain anything in the "Back Alley".

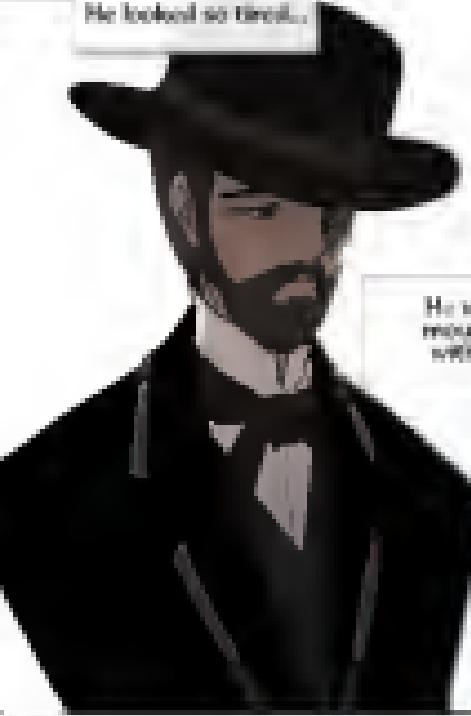

They look... identical.

Mr. James... right?

He looked so... dead...

He was in black mourning dress with a ribbon...

I couldn't tell because I didn't get a good look at him.

I need to talk to him...

I heard that you were very close to Prince Rikart.

LONE PINE

Please...

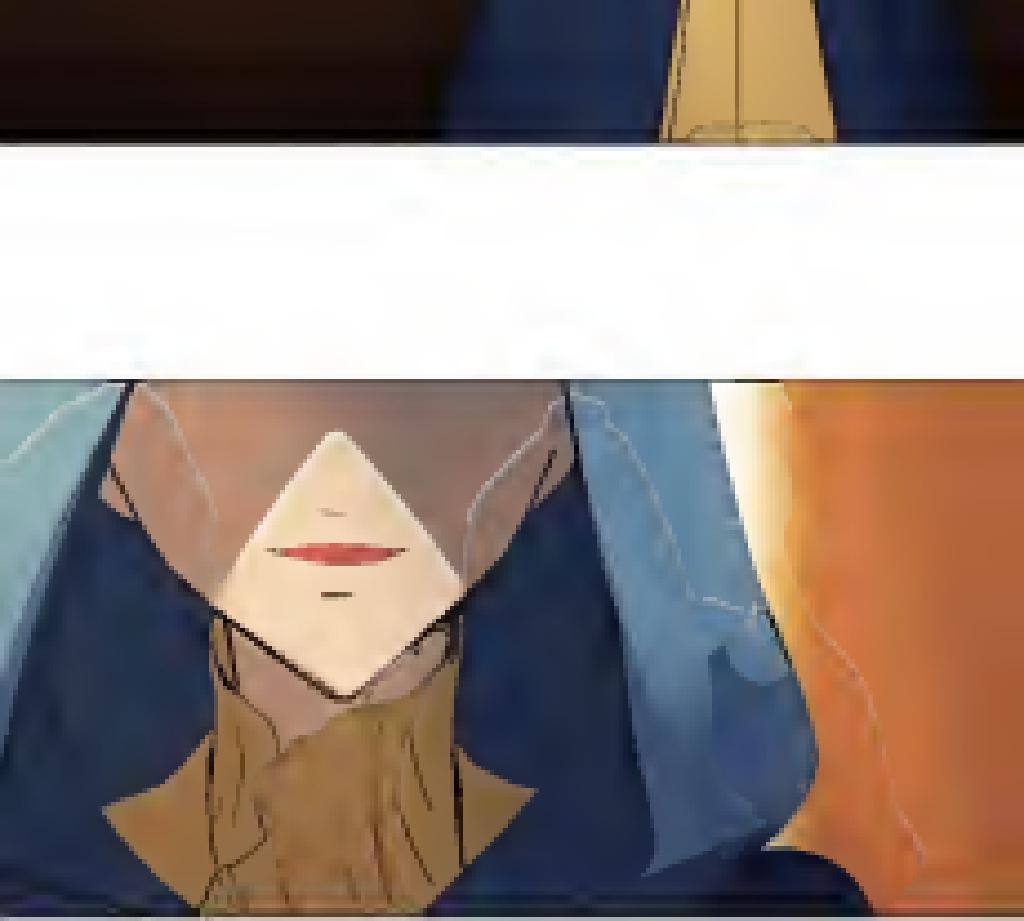

...tell me what really happened to my son when he went to Middle-...!

He was one who showed much promise from childhood and was about to take the test to become a First-class Dragon Knight.

So he couldn't possibly have deserted the military and run away like that.

Please, tell me the truth...

Yes, of course.

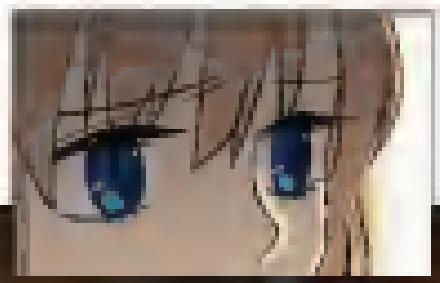

Should I get by the restrictions for a reception...?

LONE MARCH!

Will you hold onto this for me?
